Hi Jay, thank you for your review. I'm glad to hear you found the food good and quick – we always aim to deliver fresh and timely meals.

I understand your comments about our location being difficult to find and the hallway feeling narrow, making it seem more like a food court. Our spot within the park garage is a unique setting, and while it offers convenience for some, I can see how it might not be ideal for everyone. We've worked to create a cozy, efficient space despite the building's layout.

I'd be interested to know if there's anything specific about the taste that you felt could be improved or made more memorable. If you have any suggestions, please feel free to email us at info@yobowl.com. We appreciate you sharing your experience and hope to welcome you back soon.

Very disappointing experience. We brought in a service animal, which the restaurant's own sign says is allowed, but a staff member still questioned us and made uncomfortable comments.

On top of that, our order was wrong, the staff handled it with no apology, and the chicken we received appeared undercooked. Overall, the service was rude and the food safety issue was very concerning. Would not recommend.

Celia, thank you for bringing these serious concerns to our attention. I am very sorry that your visit was such a negative experience, particularly with how your service animal was treated and the issues you encountered with your food and service.

I understand you were questioned about your service animal despite our policy. We aim to make all guests feel welcome, and our team is only meant to ask the legally permitted questions to ensure the safety of everyone in the restaurant. I am very troubled to hear that a staff member made uncomfortable comments, and I would like to investigate this immediately.

The issues with your order being wrong, the lack of apology from staff, and especially the concern about undercooked chicken are unacceptable. We always want to correct food quality issues on the spot, so if you ever receive a dish that appears undercooked, please alert us immediately so we can remake it for you.

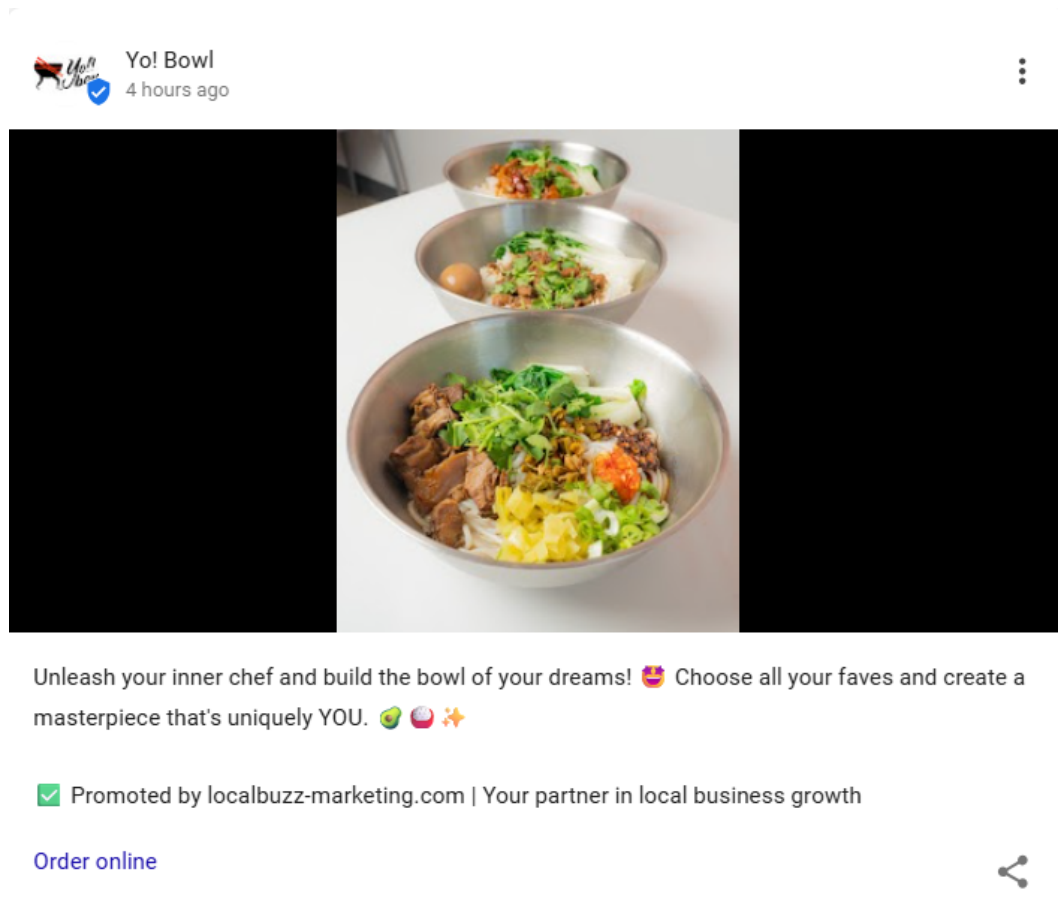

To help us understand what happened and prevent it from recurring, could you please email us at info@yobowl.com with the following details:

- * On what day and approximate time did you visit?
- * Which staff member did you interact with regarding the service animal and the incorrect order?
- * What specific dish had the undercooked chicken? (we use chicken thighs, which can naturally retain a reddish or pink appearance near the bone even when fully cooked. All of our chicken is prepared according to food safety standards and cooked to the required safe internal temperature.)

Your detailed feedback is crucial for us to address these issues and improve.
